

A. I think he walked right away and sat down, okay?

Q. Okay. Did King, when he came over, say anything to you before you told him to go back and sit down?

A. (Witness shakes head negatively.)

Q. Nothing, as far as you can recall?

A. (Witness shakes head negatively.)

Q. Did any other patron, whether it was Sawyer, DePasquale, Wyne, anybody, say anything to you or Elbery to knock it off? Did anybody else seem disturbed?

A. No .

Q. Okay.

A. They were aware of it, I -- you know, I can't say. They were aware of it.

Q. Well, you told us this was a small bar?

A. Right.

Q. So obviously hearing words exchanged doesn't take too much to hear that, right?

A. Right.

Q. But the only person to come over and in effect confront the situation was Mr. King?

A. Right.
