

Westboro detective.

Q. And how did you know that?

A. I had been told that by the bartender or a friend or --

Q. In any event, what did you observe this Tom do a short time after you had initially heard Mr. Schlener and Mr. Elbery have words, as you described it?

A. He said Tom, this fellow Tom from Westboro, said something to the effect that: If you have a problem with this place or if you have a problem with Jeff, why do you come in here?

Q. Now, where did Mr. where did Tom - his last name, by the way, is King, so if I refer to him as Thomas King, that's who I'm referring to. Where did Mr. King say that to Mr. Elbery from, his position across the bar? Or did he move from his position?

A. I would say they were pretty much across the bar from each other.

Q. And to the best of your recollection, from that vantage point across the bar from each other, it was King who said to Elbery something to the effect that: If you got a problem with the
