

today

MR. MATHIESON: I'll object to that. We can't adopt that as being personal knowledge of his own.

THE COURT: Yes, sustained.

Q. Now, when Officer Perna's report indicates that Mr. Elbery struck a girl in the eye, you don't know that to be true, do you from your own observations?

A. Right.

Q. Now, after Mr. Elbery had either broken the bottle on the side of the bar or on the bar or on the pole, he stood up from his seat, his stool, and left via the front door?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Right? Now, on this diagram that I've drawn, is the front door on this side closest to where we have you or --

A. Almost directly behind where Mr. Elbery was sitting.

Q. Okay. So getting back out to Shrewsbury Street would be on this side here?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Right? So Mr. Elbery got up from his