

seat - well, he already was up from his seat after the smashing of the bottle, and he immediately went out the door, didn't he?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Right? And obviously, the other patrons still remained where they were, right?

A. Yes.

Q. You were still, if not sitting down, still in the area where your stool was?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. You then walked around the bar to go out the front door?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Before you left to go out the front door, did you observe whether anybody had gone over to assist the female who had apparently been hurt, other than your friend?

A. I didn't notice. I just kept my eyes on Mr. Elbery right out the door and went right after him.

Q. Okay. He went out the door?

A. Right.

Q. And you said you got up right away and went after him?
