

ordered from you that morning?

A. Yes, two.

Q. And did you serve both those beers to him?

A. Yes, I did.

Q. Now, what time did he order the second beer, do you have any idea of what time?

A. I'd say we are running towards ten past one maybe, somewhere getting near last call.

Q. At some point, did an argument take place?

A. Yes, it did.

Q. Would you tell the Judge about that, please?

A. Well, when Michael arrived at the Winner's Circle, he walked in and he said to me, he goes, he said: "What are you doing working here tonight?" And I said: "It's Monday night, I work Monday nights," and he said, "No, you don't, you never work on Mondays," and I said, "What are you doing, are you telling me my schedule now? I work Mondays. I always work Mondays."

So that was that, and then from there, something transpired and I said something to him,
