

something negative. I told him that I thought he was opinionated, okay, and then from there we started arguing back and forth and

MR. ALOISE: Excuse me, Your Honor, can we still have the sequestration order in effect and not have the people come in after they testify?

THE COURT: Well, what's wrong with that? I told them they can come in after they've testified.

MR. ALOISE: Well, I'd prefer not to, in case they're recalled.

THE COURT: All right. I did tell them they could stay.

MR. ALOISE: All right. I always ask that.

THE COURT: That's okay, no problem. You'll have to leave the courtroom.

(Mr. King no longer present.)

Q. During this conversation or this argument, what was the tone of Mr. Elbery's voice?

A. It got progressively louder.

Q. And were you also yelling?

A. No, not particularly. I was making - I made a couple of statements that I probably
